

AAZK Conservation Preservation and Restoration (CPR) Grant

Grant Description
The AAZK Conservation Preservation and Restoration Grant was designed to lend support to a broad range of conservation endeavors. All appropriate applications are considered as to their beneficial impact on species of flora and fauna within defined ecosystems “in situ”, or “ex situ” for captive bred species. The intent of this grant is to promote North American projects and as such, these projects will receive priority where it is appropriate. All projects are encouraged and are eligible based on their compatibility to the CPR grant’s goals. Because of the nature of conservation projects, the scope of the project or number of people involved will not be restricted.
Qualifications
Only Professional AAZK members, in good standing are eligible to apply. Researchers, other than zookeepers and aquarists may participate in the funded studies, however the principal investigator must be a keeper or aquarist. Persons of Merit within AAZK (Board Members, Committee Chairs/Vice Chairs and Program Managers/Vice Managers), including current members of the Grants Committee, are not eligible to submit a grant application for consideration.
Grant Restrictions
The committee will not fund invasive biological studies, or any endeavor that may cause any animal undue or prolonged discomfort or harm. Due to the nature of conservation efforts, advanced monies may be important and can be applied for by contacting the Grant Committee Chair and AAZK Chief Executive Officer. Advance funding applications must be approved by the AAZK Board of Directors who will make their decision after reviewing the proposed budget and framework of the grant application. It is therefore imperative to have a detailed proposed budget account how AAZK funds are to be utilized.
